Description

There are some dependencies in the gvSIG repository that don't have a pom.xml file, only the jar file.

Those are dependencies not available in the maven central repository, that were uploaded to our repository, but only de jar file.

This way, in every compilation, maven tries to download their pom.xml file. As it doesn't exist, it keeps trying to download them each time, making a slower build process and putting more burden in the used maven repositories.

The list of dependencies to create a pom.xml for is:

org.jzkit:jzkit2-core:pom:2.0.0
org.jzkit:jzkit2-z3950:pom:2.0.0
org.jzkit:jzkit2-origin:pom:2.0.0
org.jzkit:a2j-runtime:pom:2.0.9
org.jzkit:a2j:pom:2.0.9
net.swing:amic-util:pom:unknown

I'm going to try to solve this bug as otherwise the eclipse m2eclipse plugin complains in some cases and shows annoying errors. Also any maven operation tries each time to download those poms, so the compilation process becomes slower.

#2 - 03/30/2012 11:30 AM - Cesar Ordiñana

- Status changed from In progress to Fixed
- Target version set to 2.0.0-alpha5
- % Done changed from 0 to 100
- gvSIG build changed from 2044 to 2045

I have re-deployed the jar files through maven, so the default pom file has been created for them.
